

AKALMUN'19 AREA 51 STUDY GUIDE

AKALMUN

USG' Letter

Fellow heads of staff an those who dare come close to the Area 51,

It is our utmost pleasure to present you the committee of modern mad-scientists, tough guards and lots and lots and lots of “No aliens here!” signs. Rejoice, now that you are about to step into a land of wonders, drama, tragedy and betrayal...

Well actually, its all going to be technics, administration and official stuff. You will be facing administrative difficulties, security issues, maintanence etc., all the funny stuff and a couple of plot twists here and there... the usual stuff□

We are two students who study in Kartal Anatolian İmam Hatip High School. One is Mehmet Fatih Izgi -who, unfortunately, will not be able to join us-, and the other is Dilara Koç. We also have a staff consisting of two other, to whom we are immensely thankful to, Yusuf Canbaş and Mehmet Kerem Okutan. We have worked for preparing this committee with the utmost care and effort, just so you could enjoy.

All and all, regard this letter not as an informative letter about the committee but as our way of stating our graditude.

Mehmet Fatih Izgi and Dilara Koç
Under-Secretaries General of Area 51

1-Introduction to the Committee

Air Force Flight Test Center, Detachment 3, notice num.:987-66352517928739027

The head personal of the facility are ordered to meet at the headquarters in order to;

- plan and facilitate a set of actions with regards to the requirements of the facility and the requests of the Air Force High Command
- check and, if necessary, renew the infrastructure of the facility and the security measures
- conduct field tests for the developed air force equipment
- reevaluate the security and secrecy of the unclassified floors and projects.

On the outcomes of this meetings, a report is demanded to keep subject to inspection and to prepare for an overall inspection of the facility.

2-Air Force Flight Test Center, Detachment 3

Air Force Flight Test Center, Detachment 3 -also known as Area 51- is a US Air Force facility of research and development. The facility is one of the world's most closely guarded airspace. In 2013, the CIA confirmed that the "Area 51" was real. Area 51 was built to test the a secret aircraft project called AQUATONE. The U2, codenamed Aquatone, was built to secretly monitor them when the Soviet Union boasted of nuclear power. Since the Nevada desert was less populated, they decided to do the U2 tests there. Later, the Soviet Union hit U2. That's why the radar absorber was applied to the hull to make it resistant to soviet radars, but this plan did not work because the weight increased. The CIA then launched the OXCART (A12). The A12 made the temporary facility, Area 51, permanent. According to the CIA, Area 51 is a technology base, not an air base. With the development of Area 51, the airspace continued to develop in itself. The F-117 project, named NIGHTHAWK, has introduced a new era in Area 51 invisibility technology.

The overground facility is a comparatively small unit of test chambers whilst the underground facilities are the research, development and unclassified sections. Enterance to the underground levels require necessity due employment or the special approval of the Lieutenant General of Flight Test Center Detachment 3.

The security protocols of the building are of the highest degree and importance. An intruder must be shot at sight. The whole facility is been embedded with surveillance and military-grade security systems. Furthermore, no expense have been avoided by the US military to keep the occupations of this facility since it undertakes more than just conventional weapons.

2.2-Prime Objectives

The facility has been found to serve as a special equipment researching facility. The facility enlarged since then and started to bear the most secretive projects of US military some of which are illegal. Furthermore, while retaining the task of weapons research, the facility also started to facilitate reverse engineering and analysis of other militaries' equipment.

2.2.1-Research and Development of Aerospace Technology and Air Force Equipment

In the facility, the current Air Force equipment is being upgraded in many ways to increase its overall power and efficiency whilst decreasing the weight. Also, the specialists are developing new sorts of machinery to improve the aircraft technology.

The facility is also focused on ballistic missiles and rocketry. The Department of Aerospace is mostly devoted on enhancing jet engines, radar and ghost planes.

2.2.2-Analysis and Reverse-Engineering of Opponent and Captured Technologies

The US military has been investigating the innovation and weapons accumulated during the wars and conflicts with other countries.

They have been reverse-engineering the technologies they have gathered so that they could be made even more destructive and beneficial. A portion of the innovation is unclassified and no individual knows about the origins of these technologies except the US military.

There are numerous fear inspired theories such as "Energy Weapons" which were built by the specialists and scientists in Area 51 with the resources and unknown technologies that can vaporize living creatures into ash in a flash. Though pretty cool, they are just rumors.

2.2.3-Secret Projects

The facility is thought to be, and is, conducting secret projects that the US military bears the concerns that they are illegal or first of its kind (and will probably be illegal in the future due their mass effects).

2.2.3.1-Development of US Space Armament and Satellite Systems

The early exploration of space in the mid-20th century had a military motivation, as the United States and the Soviet Union used it as an opportunity to demonstrate ballistic-missile technology and other technologies having the potential for military application. Outer space has since been used as an operating location for military spacecraft such as imaging and communications satellites, and some ballistic missiles pass through outer space during their flight.

During the Cold War, the world's two superpowers—the Soviet Union and the United States of America spent huge extents of their Gross Domestic Product (GDP) on creating military advances. And the Space Race began. By the conclusion of the 1960s, both nations regularly sent satellites and started to create anti-satellite weapons to crush each other's satellites. As interconversion rockets were created, military organizers started programmes and techniques to increase their effectiveness.

Research, development and deployment of anti-satellite and space weaponry systems were deemed illegal by the international community by the ABM treaty of 1972.

Despite this, due to the suspicion towards Russian and Chinese programs that might be developing space weaponry, US military could not dare to abstain from the area. Thus, although illegal, US government secretly continues the development of space weaponry in proclamation of self defence.

2.2.3.2-Projects on Weather and Climate Control

Among the unclassified objectives of the facility, the project on weather and climate control is the only project known to the staff as a whole due its uncoverable effects on the peripheral floors of its research and test chambers. This is why there have been a small leak of this information to the general public but was professionally prevented from becoming a real issue.

The project is still ongoing.
